Fraternity Criteria

We consider the fraternity responsible for a positive contribution to the primary functions of the colleges and universities, and therefore under an obligation to encourage the most complete personal development of its members, intellectual, physical and social. Therefore we declare:

That the objectives and activities of the fraternity should be in accord with the aims and purposes of the institutions at which it has chapters;

That the primary loyalty and responsibility of a student in his relations with his institution are to the institution, and that the association of any group of students as a chapter of a fraternity involves the definite responsibilities of the group for the conduct of the individual;

That the fraternity should promote conduct consistent with good taste;

That the fraternity should create an atmosphere which will stimulate substantial intellectual progress and superior intellectual achievement;

That the fraternity should maintain sanitary, safe, and wholesome physical conditions in the chapter house;

That the fraternity should include principles of sound business practice both in chapter finances and in the business relations of its members.

Dear Freshman:

To be able to write to you in connection with fraternity rush is a decided pleasure. You face a very important decision.

During the first semester you undoubtedly were able to gain an overview of fraternity life in general here at the University. Doubtless you already know that the system has a number of advantages to offer its members.

First, each fraternity is a self-governing unit which provides its members learning experiences in managing business and social affairs. Much important experience can be derived in this area.

Second, members of fraternities have an opportunity to become associated in groups that are compact in size. Many students feel a need for this type of association.

Third, fraternities provide social activites and outlets which can play a positive role in their members lives. In this area excesses are possible, but only if the fraternity fails to live up to its published ideals.

Finally, many fraternities encourage academic excellence. As you may know the first Greek letter society, Phi Beta Kappa, was and is dedicated to the highest in scholarly endeavor. All fraternities are imbued with principles of scholarly achievement; some fraternities put these ideals into practice. I urge you to be most careful to determine if the particular fraternity you feel you will want to join is concerned about the first obligation of each student - his academic career.

On this campus it is not at all necessary for a man to become a Greek in order to make a significant and lasting contribution in the area of University leadership. Many of our leaders come from the fraternities; indeed, this is one of the majorcontributions which fraternity men make to the University. But, as I have said, membership in a Greek letter society is by no means a must.

My most important concern for you as you approach the day when you must decide whether to join any of our fraternities is that you do so with open eyes and with a real understanding of what is the real life of that particular organization and what are the ideals to which it is committed. This is most important, for when you join a fraternity, you will be making a conscious decision that you wish to be known throughout your Universityy days and beyond as a member of a particular society. Choose one of which you will be proud and which you can make proud of you.

Sincerely,

William G. Long
Dean

LETTER TO FRESHMEN FOR IFC RUSH BOOKLET

Dear Freshmen:

I welcome this opportunity to write you in connection with our fraternity system, since I myself am a Greek and know what a great asset and contribution a fraternity can be. Probably the most central goal of our University is to provide an environment that maximizes the total positive development of each student, and it is in this context that I would like to express to you my thoughts on the fraternity system.

My four years in the fraternity system have convinced me that the opportunities for development that the system offers are to be found nowhere else in the University. Unfortunately, these opportunities for development are often not fully explored, but the potential exists in every one of our Greek organizations. For example, close identification and the cultivation of strong interpersonal relationships that a fraternity brotherhood provides represent a distinct advantage of a fraternity. Another advantage would be the opportunity to develop socially, the type of development that is too often overlooked by all of us. A third advantage that is unfortunately seldom realized is the cultivation of strong academic motivations which result not only in better grades for a student, but also a much richer learning experience for that student.

As you approach fraternity rush this year, I would urge you to be very discriminating in weighing the many advantages and disadvantages of pledging any fraternity and of pledging one particular fraternity. Membership in a Greek organization is by no means a must on the campus; in fact, as our residential college system develops, many of the surface attractions of a fraternity become less important. Those qualities of a fraternity, however, that are most lasting and which should contribute more to the development than the parties and great weekends are extremely difficult to duplicate anywhere else in the University.

Your decision during rush regarding fraternities will be a very important one for your four years here, and I would again urge you to give that decision a great deal of serious and dispassionate thought.

I send to each of you my best wishes for an eminently successful freshman year, and sincerely hope to see each of you during rush.

Sincerely yours,

Robert S. Powell, Jr.

Robert S. Powell, Jr.

Dear Freshman:

Once again I would like to welcome you to Carolina on behalf of the fraternities at Chapel Hill and the Interfraternity Council. By now you should have become pretty well acclimated to Carolina life, and I sincerely hope that you have taken a firm grasp on your academic responsibilities. Due to the existence of Deferred Rush, it is of utmost importance for you to obtain the C average which determines your eligibility to participate in Rush. If you are presently having scholastic difficulties, I strongly urge you to forsake all of your peripheral interests and to concentrate all of your energies towards pulling up your grades. There are four extremely fruitful and enjoyable years ahead of you here at Chapel Hill. Needless to say, it would be extremely foolish to ruin this opportunity by trying to pack the social life of a college career into a single semester, after which you might be forced to leave.

You have entered the oldest state university in the nation—one with a rich heritage, a prominent position among her contemporaries, and a glorious future in our growing community. You will follow the path trod by numerous leaders in the political, industrial, educational, and religious life of our state and the nation. To each of them the memory of Chapel Hill brings pleasant associations of the places and the people who made their university years a worthy commencement to lives of service.

Besides their allegiance to Carolina, many alumni also hold a devoted place in their hearts for a house and a close group of friends with whom they lived during their undergraduate days. These men wait eagerly each year to hear about the pledge classes that Rush Week has produced for their chapters. It is up to the active chapters and to you the rushee to make this year's Rush Week another happy and successful experience.

The fraternity system at Carolina has something to offer to each individual in the University community. Diversity in outlook and in goals is the prime quality of Carolina fraternities. Our system is composed of twenty-four distinctly different houses. Every individual on this campus could conceivably find happiness and an enjoyable life in at least one of these houses. Whether one's interests lie in academics, athletics, extracurriculars, parties, or even protest, there is a definite place for him in our fraternity system. If you feel that a fraternity is not the thing for you, then I challenge you to at least avail yourself of the opportunity to prove that your conclusion was correct. If you still decide not to pledge, you will have gained the invaluable experience of having met classmates and upperclassmen and to visit the fraternity houses on this campus.

If you should plan to pledge a fraternity, let me advise you to prepare for and use Rush Week well. Study this manual and visit as many houses as possible. You will want to weigh most heavily in making your decision the caliber of the individual men within each house. The houses themselves, a fraternity's national ranking, and its alleged status on campus are over-shadowed by the character and compatibility of the men within the chapter itself. They will be your daily associates and probably your closest friends during your sojourn at Chapel Hill and possibly in later life. You do not have to pledge during Rush Week; therefore enter it with high hopes for a week sometimes hectic, often confusing, but always enjoyable. If your visits should lead you to accept the invitation to pledgeship offered by the fraternity of your choice, then by all means return to the house Saturday to accept your pledge pin. Otherwise you have as much time as you like to make your decision.

Here is a final reminder: Just as you will eliminate some fraternities from your considerations after the first day of Rush Week, so the fraternities must choose which men from the hundreds of rushees they want most to become their pledges. If you should not receive a bid from the fraternity of your first choice, by all means recognize that twenty-three other houses have much to offer, and one of them may be the one for you.

J. Lindsay Freeman, President,

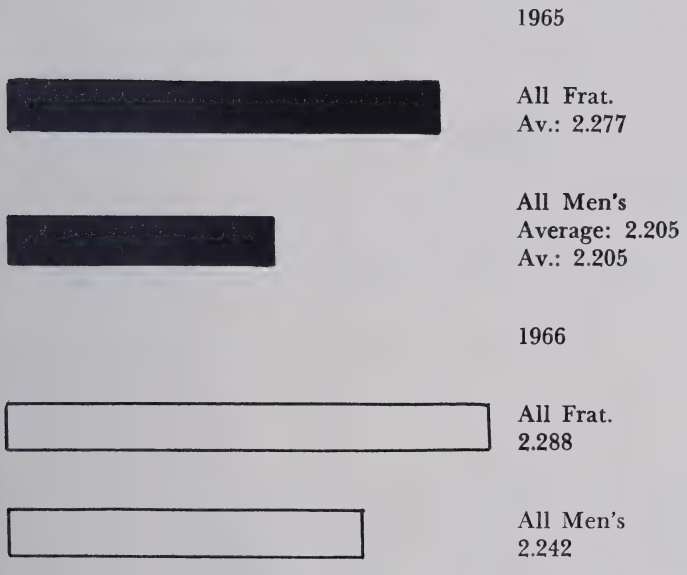
Interfraternity Council

THE FRATERNITY IS A WAY OF LIFE

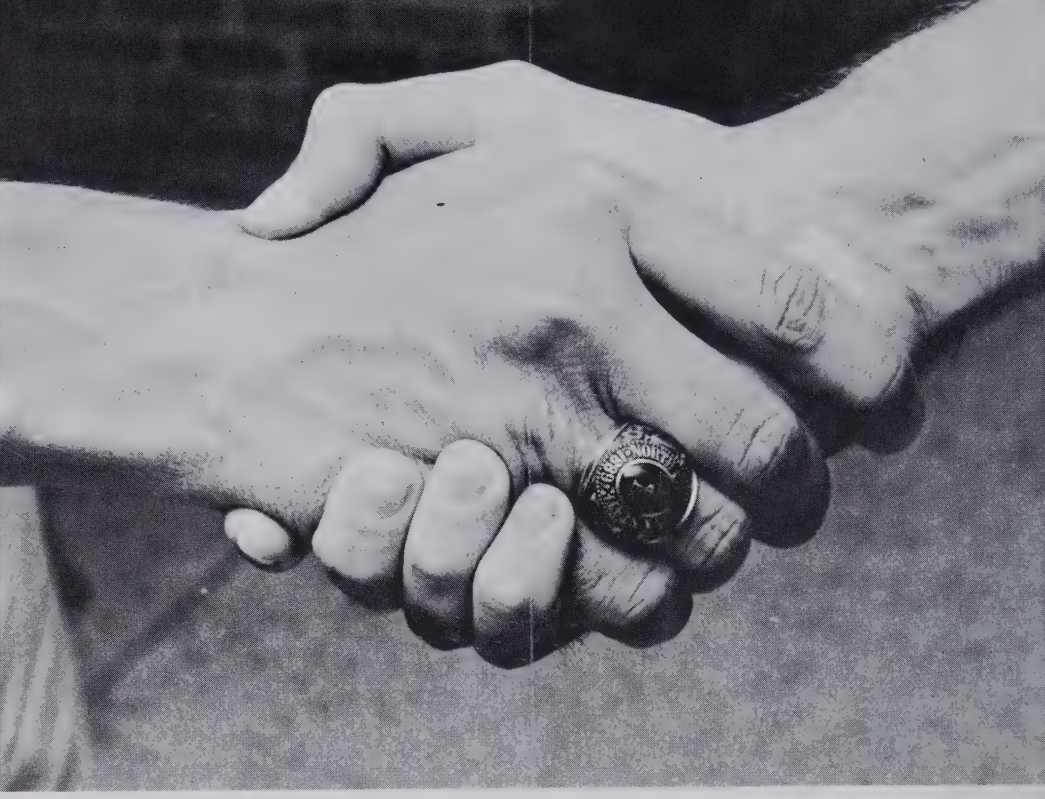
The social fraternities at Carolina have played an integral part in the lives of their members and in the general environment of the University since 1851. They offer the individual a means by which to mold and enrich his life at college, yet these advantages can be found only through the individual's initiative. It is he who must decide whether or not his experience at the University will reap the benefits of the Fraternity System. With this in mind this booklet has been prepared to enable the freshmen to explore the merits of our System.

Scholarship:

Obviously, the prime purpose of college is to better one's education, and it is to this end that the Fraternity System and the Interfraternity Council are earnestly dedicated. In order to participate in Rush and to be considered for membership in a fraternity, a freshman must have compiled at least a "C" (2.00) average. This minimum requirement at the onset helps emphasize the scholastic responsibility that every member of a fraternity has to himself and to his house.



The Interfraternity Council encourages scholastic excellence and a competitive scholastic spirit by sponsoring two trophies. One goes to the house with the highest average, which went this year to Zeta Beta Tau; the other went to Pi Lambda Phi for greatest scholastic improvement. Since it is the individual, and not the fraternity or the Fraternity System, that must take the final responsibility for his own success or failure, one may tend to minimize the importance of outside influences. Yet the stress on scholarship by the individual houses and by the System as a whole has demonstrated its effectiveness, illustrated in the predominance of the All-Fraternity average over that of the all-Men's for the past two years.



Leadership:

Fraternities encourage participation in extracurricular activities in both student government and in other campus organizations. It has been traditional for fraternity men to play an important role in the leadership of these organizations, and this year has proved no exception. In addition to the campus wide positions of leadership, the fraternities themselves require leadership, offering their members the opportunity to develop their capabilities in this area. The Fraternity System not only provides capable administrators for the campus activities, but it also allows for the development of leadership qualities in its self government.

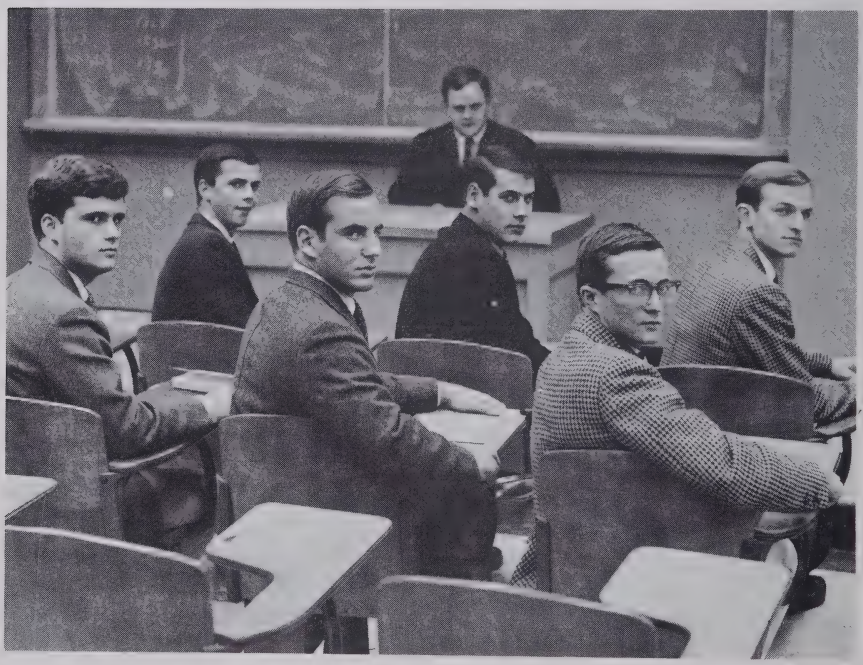
Social Life:

The social aspects of Fraternity life provide the members both with relaxation from the week's work, and also with the lasting bonds of Brotherhood. In a University such as ours, where the individual becomes another of the thirteen thousand some odd I.B.M. numbers, there is a definite comfort derived from the close relationships of Brotherhood in a fraternity. In addition to these social aspects of Brotherhood, the new members often realize the practical advantages of being associated with those more experienced than they in dealing with the intricacies of University life. In actuality one realizes that the social functions of a fraternity encompass not only a welcome break in the daily grind of academics, but also practical and meaningful interrelation of friends.

INTERFRATERNITY LIFE

The Interfraternity Council:

The Interfraternity Council, the governing body of the twenty-four fraternities, provides a needed means of communication through which the members can voice their views and resolve their differences. Meeting every Monday night under the guidance of President Lindsay Freeman, the I.F.C. entertains any business that may have relevance to the fraternities' relations with the University, the public, or with each other. The legislative body formulates policies to be brought before the Council, while the judicial branch rules on and enforces penalties for social and rushing infractions.



Service Projects:

Of all the campus organizations, the fraternities are among the leaders in establishing and aiding community service projects. A recent case in point is the newly established I.F.C. Blood Bank, in which the members of the fraternities have pledged to give their blood when needed by the hospital. Other I.F.C. projects include church "clean-ups", Christmas loading aid, and repair of private and public areas.

Greek Week:

Greek Week is an Interfraternity Council activity for each Spring pledge class. In early May, one week is set aside for fraternity competition among the new pledges. After two days of exchange dinners, Field Day is held, consisting of five athletic events. On Friday a carnival is held, and the proceeds go to the Campus Chest. A faculty-student tea is held on Monday followed by the awards banquet.

R. B. House Award

Each September the Dean of Men's office compiles all the figures concerning every aspect of a fraternity: intramurals, scholarship, extracurriculars, faculty-student relations, community service projects, and IFC participation. The trophy, called the R. B. House Award, was given this year to Zeta Beta Tau and Delta Upsilon.

Intramurals:

Every year fraternity men come back to college with high expectations of their house winning the fraternity division of the University's intramural athletic program. Intramurals in fraternities are something which contributes greatly to the spirit and unity of fraternity men. The competition is keen and great pride is shown by many houses in their outstanding intramural teams.

The major sports such as touch football, basketball, and softball receive a great deal of participation, and the winning house in each of these sports meets the victor of the dorms and graduate school to determine the campus champion.

You do not have to be a fantastic athlete to participate for a Fraternity. In every sport except wrestling and track there are two divisions, and houses may enter as many teams as they wish. As a result, have no fear of being left out.

The pleasure of participating for your house in sports is something which gives you pride and satisfaction, and something you will never forget as one of the most invaluable experiences in your college career.

Rushing Rules-Fall and Spring Semesters 1966-67

(Abridged and condensed for benefit of rushees)

1. There shall be no formal rushing of students until the second, or spring semester. The exact date of formal rushing shall be determined by the Interfraternity Council, and it shall not begin prior to the seventh day of classes of the spring semester.

2. Only those students who have been officially enrolled in and in residence at the University for a period of one or more semesters, excluding summer school, and who have maintained an academic average of C (2.00) or better during their enrollment shall be eligible for pledging.
   (a) Any student who has been officially enrolled at the University for one or more semesters, excluding summer school, may participate in rushing.
   (b) Once a student has completed the requirements of this section, he may be informally rushed and pledged at any time, except in the case that he shall have completed them for the first time in a fall semester that has not been concluded.
   (c) Hereinafter, any student who has not yet completed these requirements shall be referred to as a prospective rushee.
   (d) The requirements of this section shall not apply to a student of junior standing or above, except that he shall have on record at the University an academic average of C (2.00) or better to be eligible for pledging; and he shall not be considered a prospective rushee in the sense defined above.
   (e) A transfer student who has completed one credited semester with a 2.00 average will be eligible for rush as an exception of the above.

3. From 8:00 a.m. on the date of the first orientation meeting of the Fall Semester until the official close of school for the Christmas and New Year holiday, except for the period of the Thanksgiving holiday, as restricted in Section 5, from the period covering from 12:00 midnight Sunday until 12:00 noon Friday there shall exist between fraternity men and prospective rushees a strict silence. During this silence, no fraternity men, fraternity alumnus, bull pledge, or other fraternity agent (including those men who have been dropped from a fraternity for failure to make a C average) shall in any way entertain, engage in social conversation or correspond with directly or indirectly a prospective rushee, except to exchange a formal salutation. During the period covering from 12:00 noon Friday until 12:00 midnight Sunday the relationships between fraternity and/or fraternity men and prospective rushees shall be subject to the following limitations:
   (a) No prospective rushee shall be received in a fraternity house or property.
   (b) No prospective rushee shall be entertained at an official fraternity party, except at those held by the I.F.C.

(c) No prospective rushee shall be entertained by a fraternity man in any way whatsoever.

(d) No fraternity man shall reside with a freshman.

4. From 8:00 a.m. of the first day of classes after the Christmas and New Year holiday until the conclusion of formal rushing, with the exception of the period between 12:01 a.m. of the next to last day of scheduled examinations and 8:00 a.m. of the day of resumption of classes for the second semester, there shall exist between fraternity men and prospective rushees a strict silence. During this silence, no fraternity man, fraternity alumnus, bull pledge, or other fraternity agent (including those men who have been dropped from a fraternity for failure to make a C average) shall in any way entertain, engage in social conversation, or correspond with directly or indirectly a prospective rushee, except to exchange a formal salutation.

5. Rushing during the summer, the Thanksgiving holiday, the Christmas and New Year holiday, and the semester break shall be subject only to the following limitations:

(a) No party for prospective rushees shall be held by a fraternity in Chapel Hill.

(b) Prospective rushees entering the University in the fall shall not visit fraternity houses during the summer and holidays stated above.

6. The following rules shall apply to the formal rushing period, established according to Section 1 of this article:

(a) Each rushee must visit each fraternity from which he has received an invitation on the established rushing hours during the first and second day of the formal rushing period.

(b) Only soft drinks, sandwiches, cookies, cigarettes, and hors d' oeuvres may be served to rushees during the formal rushing period.

(c) No women other than housemothers shall be allowed in fraternity houses during the formal rushing period.

7. The Interfraternity Council Court shall be authorized to provide for the inspection of fraternity houses and other areas necessary in order to enforce Sections 1 through 6 of this article. This Court shall likewise be authorized to interpret these sections should questions concerning them arise and to try all cases arising from violations of these sections. This Court shall further have the power to impose penalties, as limited hereinafter, upon convicted violators of these sections, and to see that these penalties are enforced.

8. Penalties imposed by the Interfraternity Council Court upon convicted violators of Sections 1 through 6 shall be limited as follows:

(a) A convicted fraternity shall automatically suffer the loss of social privileges for the remainder of the semester in which it is convicted and for the fall semester of the succeeding year. The Interfraternity Council Court shall rule on this penalty in the case of extenuating circumstances.

(b) A convicted fraternity shall automatically be subjected to a fine of not less than fifty ($50.00) or more than five hundred dollars ($500.00), as determined by the Interfraternity Council Court; this fine shall be paid to the Interfraternity Council treasury.

(c) A convicted fraternity may be penalized up to the point of not being able to pledge or initiate any person for a period not to exceed twelve months.

(d) A convicted rushee shall automatically be ruled ineligible to pledge a fraternity for a period not to exceed six months from the 1st day of his eligibility for pledgeship. The Interfraternity Council Court shall rule on this penalty in the case of extenuating circumstances.

9. A rushee must not shake-up until shake-up night.

10. Shake-up is the act of a fraternity man or agent thereof attempting to cause a rushee to commit himself to that fraternity as a future pledge.

11. No agreement between a fraternity and a rushee made before Wednesday night shall be considered binding in any way, shape or form.

The Interfraternity Council Regulations On Hazing

A. Public Display shall consist of:

1. Any form of public disturbances.
2. Scavenger hunts.
3. Ridiculous costumes.
4. "Rides" such as are employed by many fraternities during "Hell Week."
5. Trips which may involve disturbance to outside parties or which may result in publicizing pledge training or initiation of pledges of any University of North Carolina fraternity.
6. Parades and any other such humiliating public displays or disturbances.

B. Physical Abuse: shall be interpreted to mean any practice which is detrimental to the health and well-being of a pledge.

1. Internal abuse is defined as giving a pledge any food, mixture, or substance designed to provoke nausea.
2. External abuse is defined as any practice which inflicts physical pain on a pledge, or which might seriously affect his health, such as "paddling," "branding," dropping eggs on pledges, forcing pledges to sit on cakes of ice, and any other games which might result in illness or injury to a pledge.

C. Scholastic Interference: shall consist of any practice putting pledges in the position of being unable to attend or properly prepare themselves for classes, including all-night walks, all-night work details, sleeping on floors, and other such practices.

No work details, duties, or errands of a constructive nature or a nature in no way destructive, or participation in intramural athletics or other extra-curricular activities shall under this rule be classed as hazing.

D. Moral indignities: shall be defined as action which by its ethical, moral, and social implications when viewed in the light of socially accepted standards of right and wrong, creates in the individual a feeling of humiliation and/or disgrace.

Hazing, as defined above, is hereby declared illegal, and it shall be the duty of the Interfraternity Council Court to try individual fraternities for violations. A fine of one hundred dollars ($100.00) is the suggested minimum penalty.

Note: Individual violators are subject to the jurisdiction of the Student Council, as hazing is a violation of the Campus Code.
